Can't Beat The Feeling!

PAUL ALLEN

Paul Allen, a longtime leader in the personal computer industry, made a dream come true when, on May 31, 1988, he purchased the Portland Trail Blazers from the club's original owner, Larry Weinberg.

An avid NBA fan since 1978 and a season ticket holder of the Seattle SuperSonics for more than five years, Allen moved from fan to Chairman of the Board when he brought the Blazers under his direction.

"I bought the team because basketball is one of my real passions, and I wanted to be personally involved with a championship-quality team," Allen said. "For a true fan of the game, this is a dream come true. The Trail Blazers played outstanding ball this year, and I hope to provide the leadership to take the organization all the way to another championship.

"In watching the NBA, I have come to have a lot of respect for the Trail Blazers' team and organization. I know the Blazers have great fans, and they deserve our best efforts to provide a winning and exciting team. The team's performance was impressive in the face of last year's adversity, and I expect it to be even more successful in the future."

Allen, together with fellow Seattle native Bill Gates, co-founded the Microsoft computer software firm in 1975. The 35-year-old Allen served as Executive Vice-President of research and new product development at Microsoft until 1983. He remains a major shareholder in the corporation.

In January of 1985, Allen founded Asymetrix Corporation in Bellevue, Wash. As President of Asymetrix, a software start-up company, Allen is dedicated to the development of business applications for the latest generation of microcomputers. He is a member of two boards of directors: Egghead Discount Software, a Seattle-based software retailer; and Layered, Inc., a Boston-based accounting software company.

A resident of Mercer Island, Wash, Allen attended Lakeside School in Seattle and Washington State University. He has a basketball court in his backyard and can frequently be found practicing his three-point shot. He also enjoys sailing on Lake Washington and playing guitar.

BERT KOLDE

Bert Kolde joins the Portland organization as Vice-Chairman. He serves as Executive Vice-President at Asymetrix Corporation where he assisted Paul Allen in the formation of that company in 1985. Since its inception, Asymetrix has focused on the development of computer software business application.

Kolde earned his bachelor's degree in finance from Washington State University and completed his master's in business administration at the University of Washington in 1980. Kolde and his wife, Alison, are the parents of son Bronson, who will be celebrating his first birthday this winter.

HARRY GLICKMAN

The Portland Trail Blazers, one of the most successful franchises in all of sports and a model for other organizations in professional basketball, point to the accomplishments of one man as the foundation for their rise to the top.

The man is Harry Glickman.

It was more than just a fitting tribute to the highly successful Blazer President when he was enshrined in the Oregon Sports Hall of Fame in August of 1986. It was recognition for the man who has been the compelling force in introducing and maintaining professional sports in the Pacific Northwest.

The success of the Trail Blazers has been unequalled since Glickman first began wooing a franchise to Portland as early as the mid-1960's.

In January of 1970, Glickman went to the league meetings of the NBA in Philadelphia with the backing for a franchise. Expansion into San Diego, Phoenix and Seattle, coupled with the transplanting of the Minneapolis Lakers to Los Angeles and the Philadelphia Warriors to San Francisco, opened up the West Coast to the predominately eastern league and enhanced Portland's bid for a team.

At the Philadelphia meetings, Glickman found the ground rules had changed and the ante had been increased for an expansion team. He returned home empty-handed but that initial setback was shortlived. A month later, with new financial backing, the Portland Trail Blazers were born at a meeting in Los Angeles.

Just seven seasons into existence, the Blazers brought a world championship to the city of Portland. Glickman's initial commitment to putting Portland at the forefront of the NBA has never wavered, avoiding the complacency that sometimes accompanies success.

Entering the 1988-89 season, the Blazers have sold out an astounding 486 consecutive home games at Memorial Coliseum. That's easily the longest string by any team in any sport.

Glickman was born in Portland and graduated from the University of Oregon School of Journalism in 1948 following a stint in Germany during World War II. He served as director of the university's athletic news bureau as a sophomore and covered the Ducks for the Oregonian during the era of the late Norm Van Brocklin, one of Glickman's close friends.

Plans to become a sports writer were tabled as Glickman began to open doors for himself in the area of promotions and publicity. After founding Oregon Sports Attractions in 1952, he devoted his efforts to promoting boxing, professional football and the Harlem Globetrotters, as well as non-sports related activities such as the Northwest tours of Judy Garland and Liberace.

A pre-season football game between the Los Angeles Rams and the Chicago Cardinals in 1952 was staged by Glickman at Multnomah Civic Stadium. With more than 29,100 fans in attendance, it was his first sellout. He continued to bring the NFL to Portland until 1969.

Glickman served as manager of Multnomah Civic Stadium in 1958 and 1959.

In the fall of 1960, Glickman brought professional hockey back to Portland after a 10-year absence, organizing the Portland Buckaroos of the old Western Hockey League. During the '60s, the Buckaroos finished first seven times and second twice in one nine-year stretch. They smashed every attendance record in professional hockey outside the then tightly-knit six-team National Hockey League.

Glickman's commitment to improving the quality of life for the people of Oregon has not been limited just to providing the benefits derived from the realm of sports. He is active in a wide variety of civic affairs.

He is a member of the board of directors of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Oregon, the U.S. Committee Sports for Israel and the Sixth-Man Foundation. He's on the board of trustees of Congregation Beth Israel, and a member of the advancement council of the School of Journalism at the University of Oregon.

Glickman and his wife, Joanne, have two daughters, Lynn and Jennifer, a son, Marshall, and a grandson, Joel. Marshall is director of business development and Jennifer is a publicity assistant for the Trail Blazers.

Glickman's hobbies include golf, tennis and fishing. He authored the popular book, 'Promoter Ain't a Dirty Word,' an account of his life in sports management.

JON SPOELSTRA

As professional sports continue to change with the times, operation costs escalate and the need for new ideas to offset those costs must be developed and implemented.

In Portland, that difficult task falls to Jon Spoelstra, the Trail Blazers' senior vice-president and general manager.

In his tenth year with the Blazers, Spoelstra oversees the organization's efforts in the areas of marketing, radio, television, cable, tickets and in developing community service projects.

The accomplishments of Portland's marketing department are widely noted in the world of professional sports. The Oregonian newspaper most accurately depicted the club's secret to success.

"The Portland marketing department serves as a model for the entire National Basketball Association," the paper reported in November of 1985, "and the main reason is Spoelstra."

A graduate of Notre Dame, where he earned a degree in communications, Spoelstra worked for the NBA's Buffalo franchise prior to coming to Portland in 1979. He has been the underlying force behind the Blazers' reputation for innovation, and his expertise has been sought by a number of other sports organizations.

In fact, it was that expertise that took Spoelstra into the center of one of the strangest trades in NBA history. When an injury to guard Darnell Valentine sent Portland searching for a replacement, Indiana veteran Don Buse was obtained by the club. The compensation to the Pacers was a man who had yet to see a minute of playing time in the NBA but who had earned an all-star reputation among the league's front office personnel—Jon Spoelstra. The Blazer marketing expert served as a consultant to the Pacers for a short time during the restructuring of that team's front office. It was a classic example of a transaction where both clubs benefited.

"Jon is a brilliant and effective marketing executive," said David Stern, commissioner of the National Basketball Association. "The NBA is very fortunate that he decided to devote his talents and energies to our sport."

The prevailing attitude that fuels Spoelstra's efforts is one of service.

"We have in our conference room a sign that reads 'service is everything'," Spoelstra pointed out. "We are constantly asking ourselves how we can better serve the people who are involved with the Trail Blazers, either as sponsors or fans. We're always looking to better the experience of being part of the Blazer family. This is what I call marketing."

A walk-on to the freshman basketball team at Notre Dame, Spoelstra originally planned to pursue a career as a sportswriter. His father, Watson Spoelstra, was on the staff of the Detroit News for 40 years and was a reporter for The Sporting News.

As often befalls a man of determination, other doors opened for Spoelstra, and he found his way to Portland. The Trail Blazers, as well as the entire league, have been reaping the benefits ever since.

Jon and his wife, Lisa, have two children. Monica is a marketing assistant with the Blazers, and Erik is a freshman member of the basketball team at the University of Portland.

GEORGE RICKLES

George Rickles, vice-president of public affairs, has been with the Trail Blazers since the team opened for business 19 years ago. His primary responsibilities have involved directing the club's ticket sales and overseeing the customer service center.

No NBA franchise in history has drawn so many fans in such a short time as Portland has. Rickles has sold seats to 8.7 million Blazer backers at Memorial Coliseum, and the streak of 486 consecutive sellouts entering the 1988-89 season is the longest of any organization in sports.

Prior to his Blazer career, Rickles directed the ticket operations for the Portland Buckaroos professional hockey team for 13 years. An accomplished gourmet, Rickles has three sons, Norman, Steve and Jerry. His wife, Sharla, is a registered nurse, and they're enjoying their life as grandparents.

KEN BARTELL

Ken Bartell enters his second season as vice-president of sponsor services for the Trail Blazers.

A native of Niagara Falls, New York, Bartell served as general manager of Portland radio stations KEX and KQFM prior to joining the Blazers. He had been the stations' business manager for five years as well.

His business background began with Sheraton Hotels, where he served as controller, spending extended time in various cities in the United States and Puerto Rico. His financial expertise led him to this position as supervisor of the Blazers' financial business where he was the team's vice-president of finance. Bartell has also been the driving force behind the in-house computer operations, working in the areas of accounting, tickets, marketing and scouting.

CHARLENE HODGES

Vice-President of Finance Charlene Hodges has the distinction of being one of just a handful of women vice-presidents in professional sports.

Prior to joining the Portland staff in December of 1985, Hodges spent eight years as the team's auditor while with Laventhol & Horwath. She was with the firm for 13 years and left as audit manager.

Hodges, formerly Charlene Wirkkala before her marriage two years ago to Berlyn Hodges, is a native of Naselle, Wash. She graduated from Vancouver's Hudson's Bay High School and went on to earn a business degree in accounting from the University of Portland.

Proudly boasting a strong Finnish heritage, Charlene devotes much of her spare time to sharpening an ever-improving golf game.

BERLYN HODGES

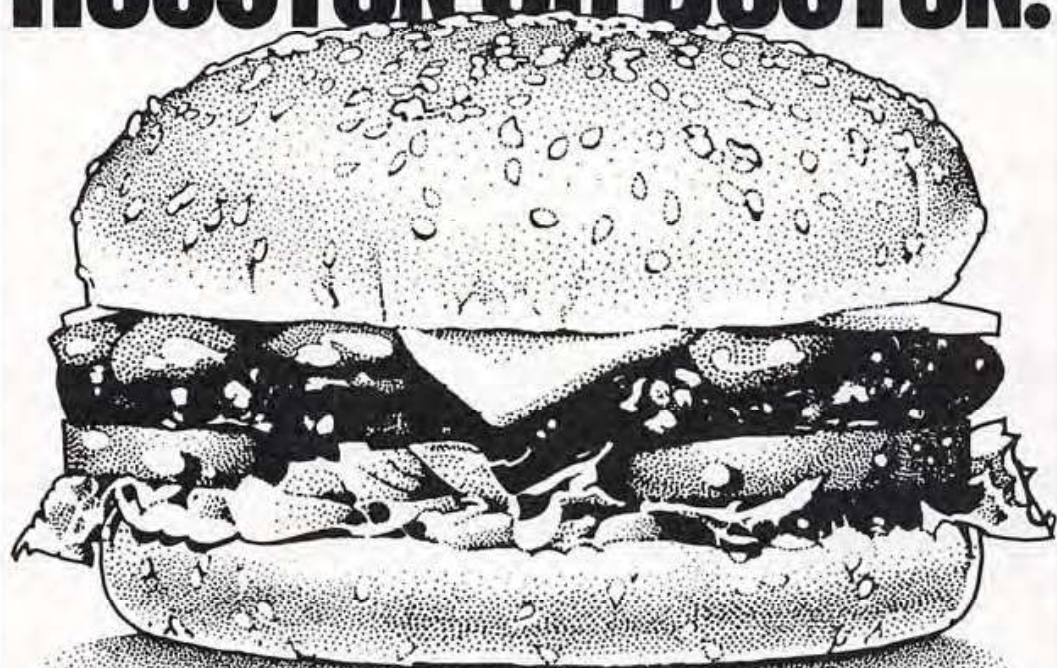

An original member of the Trail Blazer organization, Berlyn Hodges was recently named vice-president of administration for the club. His duties cover a wide array of team business internally and with sponsors.

Hodges oversees the technical end of the Blazer Satellite Radio Network and is producer of the popular Blazer Sports Talk program. Additionally, he is the team's purchasing agent and assists with the advertising efforts.

Probably the only man in professional sports to have earned seven championship rings in three different sports (baseball, hockey and basketball), Hodges was trainer and vice-president of the Portland Buckaroos hockey team for 11 years.

MORRIS (BUCKY) BUCKWALTER

It's a long road from the Grande Ronde Valley of rural eastern Oregon to the glamorous metropolitan centers of the NBA.

But that didn't deter Bucky Buckwalter in his ascension to the position of Vice-President—Basketball Operations with the Portland Trail Blazers. It only helped provide a lifetime of extraordinary experiences for one of the game's most extraordinary personalities and best talent assessors.

Buckwalter begins his third full season in charge of Portland's player personnel, a position he assumed in January 1986 after serving as an assistant coach and chief scout for the club since 1979.

Through the years, Buckwalter has earned a reputation for discerning and discovering talent from a myriad of sources. His efforts have extended to every area of the globe and his courage to take calculated risks has been rewarded with numerous success stories.

It was Buckwalter's expertise that fostered Portland's bold move to act globally in the 1986 NBA Draft, securing the rights to Russian Arvydas Sabonis, considered among the most outstanding players in the world, and Drazen Petrovic of Yugoslavia. Buckwalter has spent considerable time analyzing the foreign leagues, and, in fact, served as head coach of the Brazilian national team when it upset the Russian team in Moscow during 1975. He'd even studied international law at the American Institute for Foreign Trade before devoting all his energy toward basketball.

Closer to home, Buckwalter has plucked several plums that have become valuable contributors to the success of the Trail Blazers. Foremost has been Terry Porter, the team's first round draft pick out of Wisconsin-Stevens Point; Jerome Kersey of Longwood College in Virginia and Steve Colter from New Mexico State, both second-round selections in 1984; Johnny Davis, a second round pick from Dayton in 1976; and Billy Ray Bates, a charismatic guard imported from the CBA during the 1979-80 season.

Buckwalter was introduced to professional basketball in the summer of 1972 when he joined the Seattle SuperSonics as an assistant coach. When Tom Nissalke was fired in January of 1973, Buckwalter took over as head coach for the remainder of the campaign. The following season, he was an assistant general manager to Bill Russell with the Sonics.

The 1974-75 season saw Buckwalter at the helm of the Utah Stars in the American Basketball Association. Perhaps his most notable accomplishment that year was to convince a youngster named Moses Malone from Petersburg, Virginia to forego a collegiate career in favor of a professional contract.

Buckwalter also coached the Fresno Stars of the Western Basketball Association for a year before joining the Trail Blazer staff.

His roots are deeply planted in the Oregon soil. A 1952 graduate of LaGrande High School, Buckwalter led his Blue Mountain Conference team to the state tournament as a 6-2 senior forward with a reputation for being a furious competitor. LaGrande finished fourth in the tournament, and Buckwalter, who was also senior class president, was selected as an all-state forward.

Buckwalter played collegiate basketball at Utah, where he led the team in scoring as a sophomore and was all-conference his last two seasons. Those two final years saw Utah reach the NCAA tournament only to lose to eventual champion San Francisco, which featured Bill Russell.

After serving as an assistant coach for eight seasons at Utah, Buckwalter took over as head coach at Seattle University in 1967-68 and in five seasons posted a sparkling 79-49 record, a .617 winning percentage.

Buckwalter's journeys have provided enough stories to fill a library with volumes of interesting anecdotes. When he wasn't taming the wild world of basketball, he could even have been found riding the range of the wild, wild west on the silver screen in "Pillars in the Sky" with Jeff Chandler and Dorothy Malone or playing opposite the legendary John Wayne in the film "McQ".

Buckwalter's wife, Paula, and son, Bryan, are two of the Blazers' most visible supporters at games and functions.

SOMETIMES THE BEST THERE IS COMES FROM OUT IN OREGON.

It's tough to beat a good team with home court support. That's why "Insurance from out in Oregon" makes so much sense for residents of the Pacific Northwest.

Standard offers outstanding life and disability insurance and retirement plans for individuals and groups. Outstanding products have led to sales success. Sound investment of the premiums and home office efficiency have provided financial strength.

Leading from strength, Team Standard consistently pays policyowners higher dividends than projected at the time of purchase. It pays to play ball with Standard. Forget the hoopla from big eastern insurance companies. Capitalize on your home court advantage!

MIKE SCHULER

It seems as though Mike Schuler has a knack for setting high standards and then surpassing them. By anybody's measure, it would have been very difficult for last year's Trail Blazer team to overcome constant obstacles and top the successful season his initial team enjoyed in 1986-87. Coming off the second-best regular season in franchise history, the Blazers had been picked by many pre-season prognosticators to finish no higher than third in the Pacific Division.

It was the team's ability to overcome tough breaks and still improve its record by four games over that of the previous season that has brought many close to the situation to claim that the reigning NBA Coach of the Year was perhaps even more deserving of that accolade in his second season.

After devoting much of his life to preparing for a head coaching position in the NBA, Schuler was named as the sixth head coach in Trail Blazer history May 28, 1986. He took over a team that had been 40-42 the previous season, a noticeable difference from the success that Schuler had experienced as an assistant for three years under Don Nelson at Milwaukee.

In just 11 months he would guide the Blazers to their second-best record ever, 49-33, and earn the Red Auerbach Trophy as the NBA's top coach.

Schuler's ability to make the most of what's available was the biggest key to the success of the 1987-88 Trail Blazers. Faced with more injury problems than any other team in the National Basketball Association, overcoming the loss to retirement of the past year's most intimidating big man in Kenny Carr, and not having an influx of help from the 1987 NBA Draft, posed long odds for last year's team.

Despite losing a healthy total of 247 manpower games because of injury, Portland finished with its second-best record ever, 53-29, and second-best mark on the road, 20-21.

The Blazers finished second in the league in scoring with a 116.1 average and outrebounded their opponents by a 45.6 to 43.3 margin. The team won nine straight twice and never lost more than five in a row. Mike Schuler became just the ninth coach in NBA history to win 100 games in his first two seasons on the job.

Schuler's success stems from having learned his craft as an understudy to some of the best minds in basketball and from serving as a head collegiate coach for seven years. Prior to joining Nelson's staff in Milwaukee, he earned his NBA stripes as an assistant to Larry Brown at New Jersey.

A graduate in education at Ohio University, Schuler spent three years in high school coaching followed by a year with Bobby Knight's NIT-bound Army team in 1965. In 1966, he returned to his alma mater as assistant coach and helped direct the team to two Mid-American Conference titles and a trip to the National Invitation Tournament in three seasons.

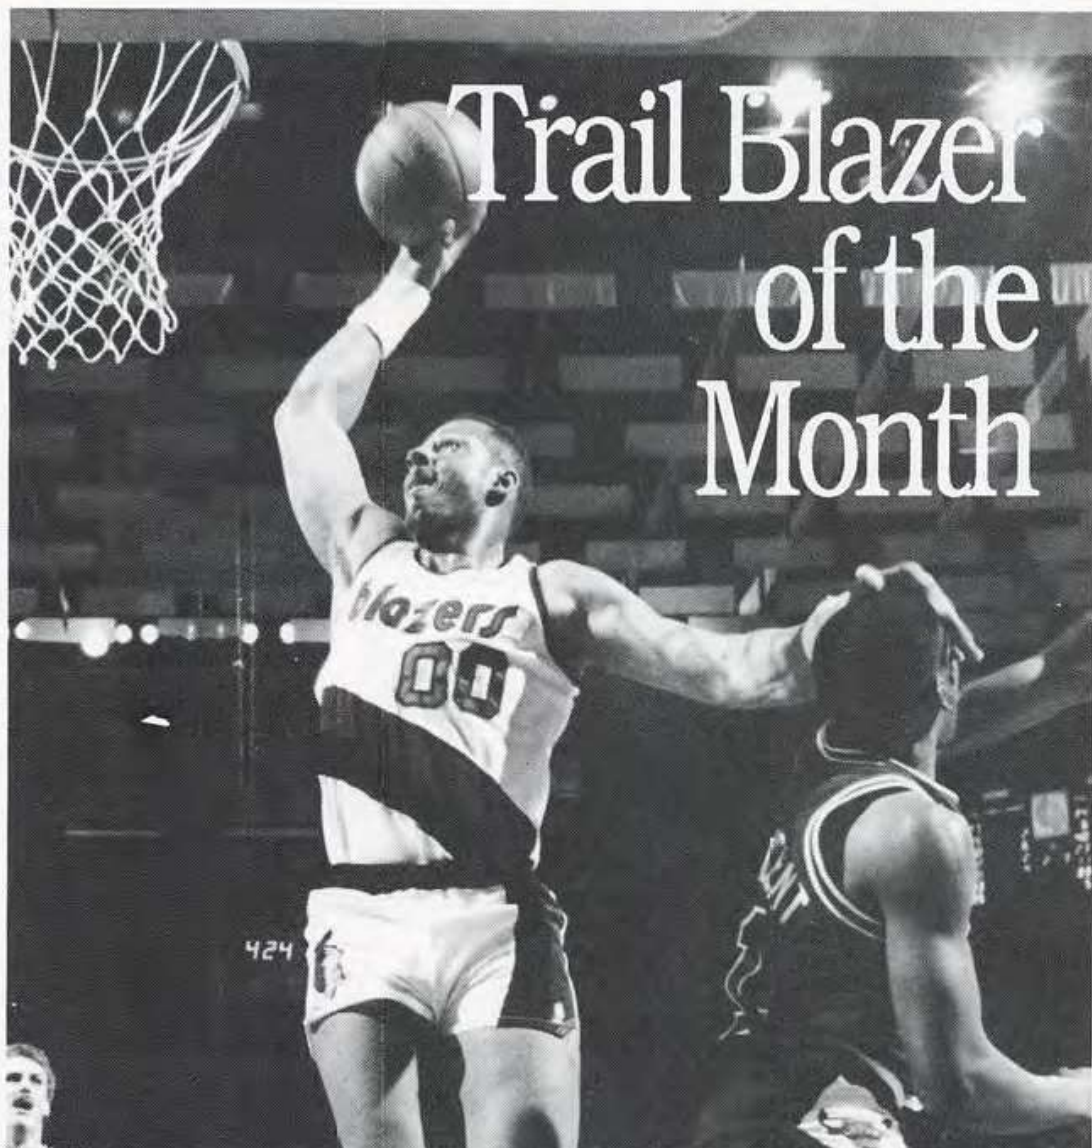

From 1969 to 1972, Schuler was head coach at Virginia Military Institute, a job he shouldered at just 29 years of age. He left the school for a five-year stint as an assistant to Bill Gibson and then Terry Holland at Virginia from 1972 to 1977.

The head coaching position at Rice opened up in 1977 and Schuler answered the call to attempt to turn around a program that had never threatened to ascend to the top of the Southwest Conference. In four years at the Houston school, Schuler's Owls made steady progress. The 1980-81 team finished with a 12-15 mark and made tremendous strides toward respectability when it became the first Rice team ever to beat cross-town rival Houston and the first to defeat Texas at Austin. He was named Southwest Conference Co-coach of the Year when Rice had its winningest season in a decade.

In 1981, Brown tapped Schuler to be his assistant at New Jersey. Schuler coached the Net's Summer League team and compiled a 25-5 record. The team won the league title in 1981 and went on to the semifinals in 1982.

Schuler has been known as a teacher and educator of the game, as evident through his popularity at basketball clinics and camps. Mike and his wife, Gloria, have two daughters, Kimberly and Kristin. He was born September 22, 1940 in Portsmouth, Ohio.

RICK ADELMAN

Rick Adelman, an original Trail Blazer and the club's first team captain, is in his sixth season as a Portland assistant coach.

Adelman joined Jack Ramsay's coaching staff in the fall of 1983 after a 10-year hiatus from Portland. He maintained his place on the Blazer bench when Mike Schuler took over the head-coaching duties two years ago and has been instrumental in the team's successful 102-62 record performance.

A 6-2 guard in his playing days, Adelman was selected by Portland from San Diego in the expansion draft of 1970 and was the cover subject of Portland's first media guide. He was the team captain during the 1971-72 season, the first Blazer player given that responsibility (there was no captain in the initial season of 1970-71).

Adelman played three seasons with the Trail Blazers (1970-71 through 1972-73), averaging 9.8 points and 4.6 assists in 237 games. He set what then was a Portland record for assists in leading the club with 413 and a 5.2 average in 1971-72.

Overall, Adelman played in 462 regular-season games during a seven-year stint in the NBA that included stops in San Diego, Portland, Chicago, New Orleans and Kansas City-Omaha. He recorded 3,579 points (for a 7.7 average), earned 1,606 assists (for a 3.5 average) and shot .415 from the field and .713 from the foul line.

A graduate of St. Pius X High School in Downey, Calif., Adelman scored a school-record 1,415 points (an 18.6 average) in four collegiate seasons at Loyola. He earned a master's degree in history at the institution following his retirement from the NBA.

One year of work with Converse preceded Adelman's move to Salem, Ore., where he served as head coach at Chemeketa Community College for six seasons. His teams posted a 141-39 record, winning outright or sharing three Oregon community college championships and one Region 18 title.

Adelman and his wife, Mary Kay, have two daughters, Kathryn Mary, and Laura, and they have two sons, R.J., and David. Adelman was born June 16, 1946.

MAURICE LUCAS

NBA big men can relax a little bit, Maurice Lucas has turned in his uniform and picked up a clipboard. The consummate enforcer has undertaken the new challenge of assistant coach with the Blazers.

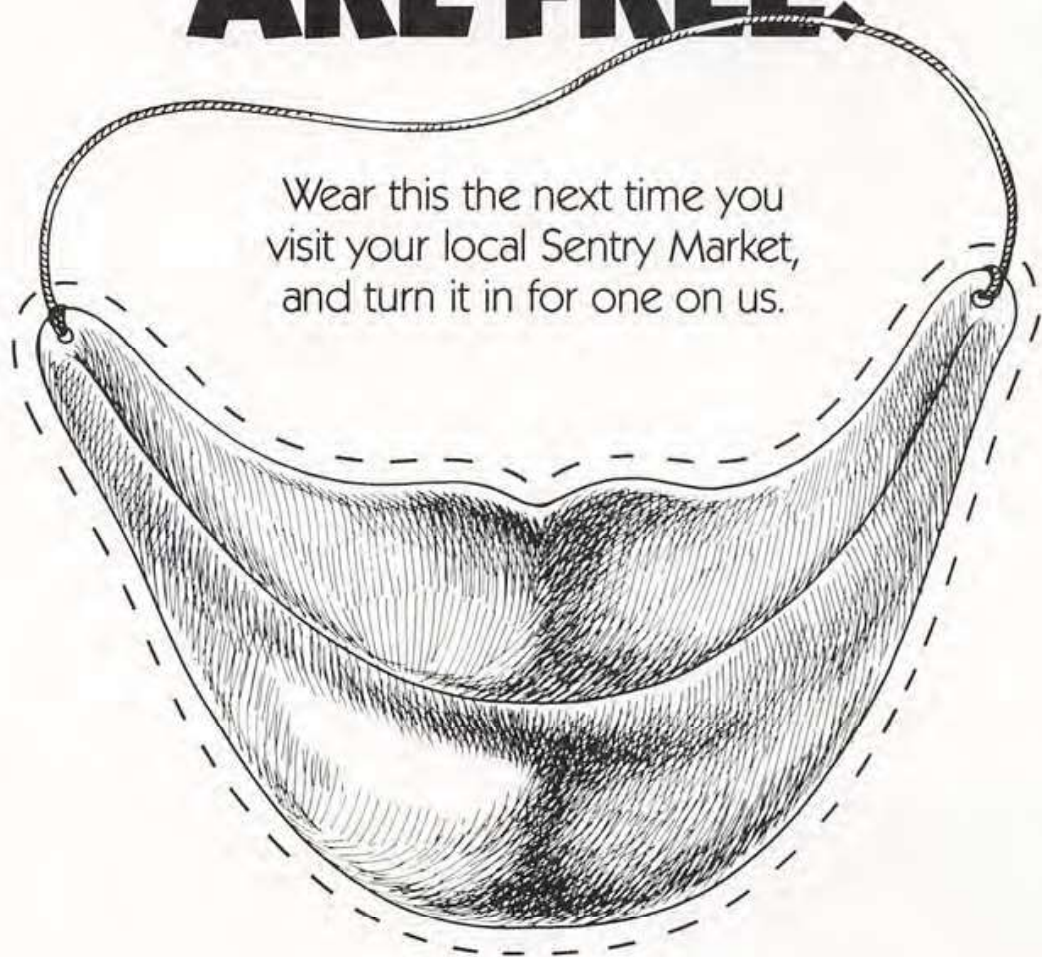

Lucas finished an outstanding playing career last season in Portland, averaging 6.1 points and 4.3 rebounds in 73 games. An NBA All-Star in 1977, 78, 79 and 83, the rugged power forward averaged 14.4 points and 8.8 rebounds in 855 contests. Lucas was selected by Portland in the 1976 ABA Dispersal Draft and averaged 20.2 points and 11.4 rebounds the first season to help lead the Blazers to the NBA Championship title.

Lucas, 36, played 330 games with Portland, finishing fourth on the all-time rebounding list (2876/8.7) and eighth on the scoring chart (5151/15.6). He also played with New Jersey, New York, Phoenix, Los Angeles and Seattle during his career. His work on the bench this season will focus on the development of young big men Kevin Duckworth, Mark Bryant and Rolando Ferreira.

Lucas and his wife, Rita, are the parents of sons Maurice, Jr. and David and daughter Kristin. He also maintains a financial consulting business in Portland.

JACK SCHALOW

Jack Schalow is in his third season with the Blazers, serving for the first year as assistant to the vice-president of basketball operations and assistant coach.

A veteran of the collegiate coaching ranks and the Continental Basketball Association, Schalow utilizes his vast experience to serve the Blazers. He scours college campuses across the country in search of the best young talent that will maintain the Trail Blazers' position as one of the NBA's best young teams for years to come.

Schalow has been a Blazer scout since December 1985. Prior to undertaking those duties, he was head coach of the Wyoming Wildcatters in the CBA. In the 1982-83 season, his first with the Wildcatters, Schalow guided the team to a runner-up finish in the league's Western Division. Wyoming won the Western Division and went the distance in the CBA championship series before falling to the Albany Patroons in the final game. The 1984-85 season saw the Wildcatters win the Western Division regular season race but finish third in the division playoffs. In his three seasons at Wyoming, Schalow fashioned a 69-67 record and was runner-up for the CBA Coach-of-the-Year Award following the 1983-84 campaign.

The 49-year-old Schalow is widely noted at the collegiate level. A graduate of University of the Pacific, Schalow served as freshman coach at his alma mater in Stockton, Calif. His other head coaching assignment came at Morehead State in Kentucky. Schalow also served as assistant coach at Duke (with Hubie Brown), Louisiana State and Seattle University. Two of his five seasons at Seattle were as an assistant under Bucky Buckwalter, current Vice-President of Basketball Operations with the Blazers.

Jack has a daughter, Traci Ann, and son, Terry. He and his wife, Valda, have a son Bridger, and a daughter, Lanie.

JOHN WETZEL

John Wetzel, a former player, assistant coach and head coach in the NBA, is the newest member of the Trail Blazers organization.

Wetzel, 43, was head coach with the Phoenix Suns last season after serving as an assistant with the team for eight years. A veteran of seven seasons as a player with Los Angeles, Phoenix and Atlanta he retired in 1976 (with averages of 3.4 points and 1.4 assists) only to return to the game as a coach two years later.

His first coaching experience came during the 1978-79 season when he guided the Washington Lumberjacks of the Western Basketball Association to a 29-19 record. A 1966 graduate of Virginia Tech, Wetzel was a finalist for the Cleveland Cavaliers' head coaching position in 1986.

Wetzel was an eighth-round selection of the Lakers in the 1966 NBA Draft but did not play that season due to a broken wrist. He was picked by Phoenix in the 1968 Expansion Draft but spent two years in military service before joining the Suns prior to the 1970-71 campaign. Following three seasons with Atlanta, Wetzel returned to Phoenix in time for the 1975-76 season that saw the Suns advance to the NBA Finals. In the summer of 1976, he became the first player to retire as a member of the Suns.

Wetzel enjoys golf and windsurfing. He and his wife, Diane, have two sons, Mark and Paul.

MIKE SHIMENSKY

Mike Shimensky, trainer of the Los Angeles Clippers for six seasons, is in his second year serving the Trail Blazers in that capacity.

"Shimensky comes to us with the strongest possible recommendations," said Portland President Harry Glickman at the time of his appointment. "When Ron Culp (Blazer trainer the previous 13 seasons) informed me he was leaving I asked our team physician, Dr. Bob Cook, to research available trainers, and Mike came out with the highest possible marks."

The 41-year-old Shimensky spent more time in the Clippers' operation than any player, coach or front office personnel, joining the club in September of 1981 after nearly 10 years of training and sports clinic experience in the Phoenix area.

While in Phoenix, Shimensky, a native of Honolulu and a graduate of Central Washington University, was responsible for holding training seminars to benefit coaches, trainers and nurses and provide them with more insight into sports-related injuries while working with the Sports Medicine

Clinic.

After earning a master's degree in athletic training at the University of Arizona in 1973, he served as that institution's assistant trainer, working with the basketball, football and track teams. In the same capacity, he provided his services to Phoenix area high schools and junior colleges as needed.

Mike and his wife, Roberta, have two sons, Daniel and Andrew, and a baby daughter, Lauren.

HENRY WEINHARD

Henry Weinhard
Brewmaster, No. 1, 5'10", 171 lbs.
Born: 1830, Wurtemberg, Germany
High School: Wurtemberg Area
College: Brewers apprentice

At the age of 22, and after years of apprenticeship, a talented Henry Weinhard decided he was ready for the major leagues. Upon surveying his options, Henry determined the best opportunity for a rookie such as him was in America.

In 1852 he came to the United States and immediately found a berth with the brewers in Cincinnati, Ohio. He spent four years with this team polishing his skills.

As a free agent, he was intrigued by reports concerning bright openings on the Pacific coast. So early in 1856 he made the long voyage, via the isthmus, to the far west and hooked up with a Vancouver, Washington organization where he plied his trade for six months.

He then felt the time was right to make his move, so, in 1856, he established his own brewery near Fort Vancouver. It wasn't long before soldiers, loggers and trappers of the area became very big Henry Weinhard fans.

In 1860 he moved his operations to its present location on Burnside in Portland. From then on, Henry chalked up an enviable record of victories. He kept acquiring more equipment and adding more facilities to constantly increase his output while stubbornly maintaining the high level of excellence he had become known for. Everywhere along the coast Weinhard's beer was recognized as unsurpassed by any other native product.

Henry's experience and foresight prompted him to locate in Portland because he realized this area would eventually become the primary source of premium brewing ingredients in the United States. Time has proven him right.

Rare, two-row malting barley, for example, is grown in very few areas of the country, but Oregon's Klamath Basin is the most prominent. And the unique Cascade hops — which Henry recognized as being equal if not superior to the exalted Hallertau hop of Bavaria are raised here in Oregon.

Today, two labels continue in the proud, teutonic tradition set forth by Henry Weinhard 124 years ago. The perennial hometown favorite, Blitz-Weinhard, and the handmade, ultra-premium that is his namesake, Henry Weinhard's Private Reserve.

Trailblazer fans can expect a lot of good things from both of them this season. Again.

Does your group insurance company move quickly when you call?

If your medical claims representative spends more time going out for lunch than he spends going out of his way for you, you have the wrong group insurance plan. You need the ODS Health Plan. Because your satisfaction is our first priority.

Our programs are simple to understand and to use. But if a question arises, we're there when you need us. We give prompt, courteous answers to all of your employees' inquiries – usually right over the phone. In fact, we answer more than 80% of our clients' questions on the very first call. And we're also speedy in handling claims.

What's more, we do a service review at least once a year on every account. It's a chance for us to work with you to make sure we're doing everything we can to keep you completely satisfied.

We also provide you with detailed health plan reports which show exactly how your premium dollar is being spent. So you can make informed decisions on cost savings and/or program enhancements.

If you're interested in getting quality service as well as quality coverage, call us at 228-6554, Ext. 1121. We'll be there.

DOCTOR CALLS ON PATIENT AT COLISEUM.

When Dr. L.S. Caspersen of Portland is on call, he's never far from a phone. As an obstetrician, his practice includes future Trailblazer fans born with a lot of questions.

Wisely, he has made himself immediately available even when he's enjoying a game.

Dr. Caspersen simply registers with Security when he enters the Coliseum. Then when a call comes in, Security notifies the Cellular One Courtesy Agent, who delivers the mobile phone to the doctor.

This service is available to anyone who hates to waste time.

If you'd like to enjoy this convenience, simply register at the box office.

You could be using your time as well as Dr. Caspersen uses his. Because now he doesn't waste a minute getting to the lobby or waiting for a pay phone.

It's a good thing, too. Some of his patients just can't wait to talk to him.

Tom Peterson's 25 YEARS of Serving Oregon and SW Washington

Tom Peterson's is truly a home grown company that planted its first roots at SE 82nd and Foster Rd. and stayed put. Over the years Tom's has grown right along with the rest of Portland, becoming the successful type of company our fine city is known for. Tom is now established as a neighborhood fixture with four great stores, all at that same SE 82nd and Foster Rd. location. It has become the area's most established outlet filling the electronic, appliance, and home furnishing needs of people throughout the state.

Tom Peterson's, still owned and operated by Oregon's first family of retailing is excited about future growth, with a commitment to customer satisfaction and the continued community support it has received for the past 25 years.

Thank you Portland, Oregon and S.W. Washington, too!

Bill Walton virtually made a career out of rebounding against Golden State. He recorded two 26-rebound games, six games of 20 or more retrieves, ten of 17 or more and was in double figures in that stat column in 15 of 16 outings as a Blazer. He averaged 17.3 caroms per game in the all-time series with the Warriors.

PORTLAND TRADE HISTORY

NOTES TO TRADE HISTORY

1. If a third team is not mentioned in the transaction then assume any draft pick is the choice of the team Portland is trading with or Portland's choice.
2. If a draft choice acquired in a transaction is subsequently traded by Portland in that original deal the choice is listed as: choice traded. Everywhere else when a draft choice is mentioned the player eventually selected either by Portland or by the team that finally wound up with that draft choice is shown in parenthesis.
3. In trades only what actually happened is given. If a team has several options in a deal only the one they decided to use is given.

PORTLAND YEARLY ATTENDANCE

For the 11th straight season, the Portland Trail Blazers were sold out in 1987-88 for all 43 home games, 41 during the regular campaign and two in the playoffs.

This stretched Portland's record for consecutive sellouts for regular-season and playoff action to 486.

It's an all-time National Basketball Association record.

The last time the Blazers failed to sell out was on April 5, 1977, when a crowd of 12,359 turned out for a game with Detroit.

In Portland's first 18 NBA seasons, the Blazers have drawn 8,253,030 fans for 736 regular season games. That's an average of 11,213 a contest.

For 769 regular-season and playoff games, the Blazers have drawn 8,672,849 fans for an average of 11,278 a contest.

In 41 regular-season road games in 1987-88, Portland played before 520,792 fans — an average of 12,702 a contest.

For the entire regular season, home and road, attendance was 1,040,098 for Portland games, an average of 12,684 a contest.

NOTES-1989 FIRST ROUND

- (1) Seattle has option to exchange 1989 first round choice with Chicago. It has option to exchange least favorable of own, Milwaukee's and Philadelphia's choice with Chicago's. If Chicago's 1989 choice is one of the first three selections in Draft, Seattle will not have option to exchange at all (Pippen-Polynice 6/22/87).
- (2) Houston must convey a first round choice to Golden State in 1989, 1990 or 1991 (at Golden State's option).
- (3) Philadelphia will receive from Seattle the middle of the Sonics three first-round draft picks (Milwaukee, Seattle, Philadelphia).

Portland's Other Trailblazer.

It's Horizon's Super Shuttle. And where frequency to Seattle is concerned, it's a real trailblazer.

Horizon Air was the first (and still the only!) airline to offer weekday flights every half hour. That's thirty-plus flights each way between Portland and Seattle. And most are on our roomy new Dash 8's.

So see your Travel Agent or call Horizon toll-free (800) 547-9308.

And fly with our trailblazer.

1987-88 SERIES CAPSULE

PORTLAND

Terry Porter's triple-double was one of two for the Portland guard during the season. He accounted for the only triple-doubles by a Blazer in 1987-88. The Blazer defense held Cleveland to a .412 (73-177) field goal percentage, and Portland had 20 more buckets (93-73) than the Cavs in the two games. Portland's 67 assists was its highest total in a two-game series during the season. The Blazers .635 (33-52) free throw mark was their lowest in any series on the year.

1987-88 SERIES CAPSULE

PORTLAND

The Blazers' only two overtime games of the 1987-88 season came against the Nuggets. Portland's 61 rebounds in game four and 60 field goals in the final meeting were single-game highs on the year. The Blazers ran up a 275-231 rebounding advantage and put down 28 more field goals than did the Nuggets, shooting .483 (248-513). Jerome Kersey's 64 rebounds were his most in a season series. Portland won the series for the first time since the 1983-84 season. Caldwell Jones posted his only double-doubles of the season against the Nuggets.

Portland led by eight early in the third quarter after a close first half, but the shooting of Isiah Thomas and Rick Mahorn put Detroit up, 93-89, heading into the final period. . . Portland was within two, 111-109, with 3:54 to play when Clyde Drexler fouled out. . . Trailing 119-116 at the 1:45 mark, Portland turned the ball over three times and couldn't stage a comeback, failing to convert a field goal in the final 2:26. . . The loss snapped a nine-game Portland winning streak. . . Adrian Dantley scored the 20,000th point of his NBA career in the contest.

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
36-25	39-20	38-18	23-28	136-91	12,666

Portland won its 14th game in 17 outings, posting the third-largest victory margin in franchise history. . . Ralph Sampson was 1-12 from the floor the last three quarters and scored all of his 11 points in the first half. . . Portland's biggest lead came at the end of the third quarter with a 50-point advantage, 113-63. . . Steve Johnson scored 27 points in 22 minutes. . . Portland shot .566 from the field, Golden State .371.

WARRIORS 115, BLAZERS 110, January 27, 1988, At Oakland (Game 39, 24-15)

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
25-31	31-28	25-25	29-31	110-115	11,010

The Warriors took advantage of a balanced offense and never trailed in the second half after leading, 59-56, at the break. . . A goaltending call on a Rod Higgins layin put the Warriors up 111-104 with 1:23 left. . . Terry Teagle topped Golden State's scoring with 25 points off the bench.

BLAZERS 123, WARRIORS 117, March 5, 1988, At Portland (Game 57, 36-21)

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
36-37	34-27	27-21	26-32	123-117	12,666

Richard Anderson scored 13 of his 15 points, including a pair of three-pointers, in the fourth quarter to spark an otherwise sluggish team performance. . . Rod Higgins scored 25 first-half points, but Portland led 70-64 after two quarters. . . The Blazers led 117-113 with 2:16 remaining and allowed only four points from Winston Garland down the stretch to win their sixth straight game.

BLAZERS 121, WARRIORS 116, March 18, 1988, At Oakland (Game 63, 41-22)

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
33-23	30-31	30-33	28-29	121-116	12,955

Two Terry Porter free throws with 21 seconds remaining gave the Blazers a 118-114 lead, and the third-year guard iced the game away with two more successes at the line with 13 seconds left. . . Porter finished with a career-high 40 points, including 16 in the fourth and deciding quarter. . . Portland set club records with 15 three-point attempts, including eight by Richard Anderson. . . Golden State retired Rick Barry's number, 24, prior to the game.

BLAZERS 147, WARRIORS 113, April 15, 1988, At Portland (Game 77, 49-28)

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
45-26	30-27	41-24	31-36	147-113	12,666

Portland scored more than 40 points in two quarters for the only time during the season and matched the franchise record for first-quarter points with 45. . . The Blazers shot .667 from the field and threatened the club record by holding a .726 percentage with 6:50 left in the game. . . Portland opened with a 19-6 lead and led by as many as 23 points in the first half. . . Reserve Charles Jones was perfect in six tries from the floor for Portland.

BLAZERS 131, WARRIORS 117, April 20, 1988, At Oakland (Game 80, 51-29)

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.

Philadelphia won its seventh straight encounter with Portland, the Sixers longest string of successes in the all-time series. . . Charles Barkley was virtually unstoppable with 38 points and 24 rebounds, including an 18-21 effort at the free throw line. . . An 11-0 run to open the fourth quarter carried Philadelphia from a 71-63 deficit to a lead it never gave back. . . Cliff Robinson scored nine of his 13 points in the game's final 4:25 to turn back the Trail Blazers. . . Portland shot .341 (31-91) from the field, Philadelphia .408. . . The Blazers had just nine turnovers.

BLAZERS 127, SIXERS 125, January 1, 1988,

One of the season's most exciting games ended when Clyde Drexler stole Philadelphia's inbound pass with three seconds remaining and drove for a buzzer-beating layin. . . Much of the game was on the line with Portland equalling its franchise record for free throws made in a quarter with 21, and the two teams combined to set Portland club records for foul shots made (87) and attempted (103). . . Down 12 points at the half, Portland surged back behind Jerome Kersey's 26 second-half points. He finished with a career-high 36 points. . . Drexler charted 37 points. . . Two Charles Barkley free throws had put Philadelphia ahead by two with 15 seconds left. Drexler then tied the score with a pair of free throws with three seconds left to set the stage for his heroics.

Fouling Philly: In three of the last five games with Philadelphia the Sixers have shot 48 of 59 (the most ever made in one game by a Portland opponent), 46 of 56 and 42 of 53 from the free throw line.

1987-88 SERIES CAPSULE

PORTLAND

Six series records were set at the free throw line at Washington, two by Portland. The Blazers converted more field goals than Washington (94-76) and outrebounded the Bullets 105-88. Portland tied its longest winning streak in series history with the victories. Steve Johnson averaged 9.5 points and 12.0 minutes in the series.

WASHINGTON

The Bullets shot .418 from the floor, the third-lowest percentage for a Blazer opponent. They outscored Portland, 60-47, at the foul line, converting 31 of 43 at Washington to raise the series standards. Washington had won three straight at the Cap Centre. It was only the second time (1980-81) that Portland swept the Bullets in a series.

A GUIDE TO PERSONNEL PROCEDURES

ACTIVE LIST: A team must carry a minimum of 11, and no more than 12, players on its active roster. At no time shall a team be permitted to dress fewer than eight players for a regular season game or nine for a playoff game. During the offseason and training camp, teams may carry no more than 20 active players.

INJURED LIST: Any player placed on the injured list due to injury or illness, must sit out at least five of his team's regular-season games before he may be restored to the active list. For players injured near the end of the season, the rule is to mean the players must sit out five games or as many games as remain in the regular season.

TRADING DEADLINE: No trades or sales among teams are permitted after 9:00 P.M. Eastern Time, February 23. From that point to the end of the regular season, player additions can be made through the waiver procedure or by acquiring free agents.

WAIVERS: From August 15 to the end of the regular season, clubs may claim waived players within 48 hours after notice. Players waived at any other time, may be claimed within 10 days. If no teams claim the waived player, he becomes a free agent. If more than one club claims a waived player, the one with the lesser record at that time claims the player. The waiver price shall be $1,000 per player payable to the League Office.

TEN-DAY CONTRACT: On or after the 55th day following the season's first game, a team may sign a player to a 10-day contract solely for the purpose of replacing an injured player. No player may be signed to more than two 10-day agreements by a single team in the same season.

GUARANTEED CONTRACT DATE: On the 56th day of the regular season, all player contracts become guaranteed for the remainder of the season.

AMATEUR ELIGIBILITY RENUNCIATION: A player whose high school class has graduated shall become eligible for the college draft if he renounces his intercollegiate basketball eligibility by written notice to the NBA at least 45 days prior to the draft. Prior to 45 days before the draft, teams may not make direct or indirect contact with players who have eligibility left. Clubs may contact players without remaining eligibility, but may not discuss compensation.

TRADING OF FIRST DRAFT CHOICES: No team may sell or trade its right to select a player in the first round of the college draft if the result of such an exchange would be to leave the club without first-round picks in any two consecutive college drafts.

PRE-DRAFT CAMPS: Prior to the college draft, teams are prohibited from conducting so-called "mini-camps" for prospective players eligible for the draft.

EXPANSION EXPLAINED

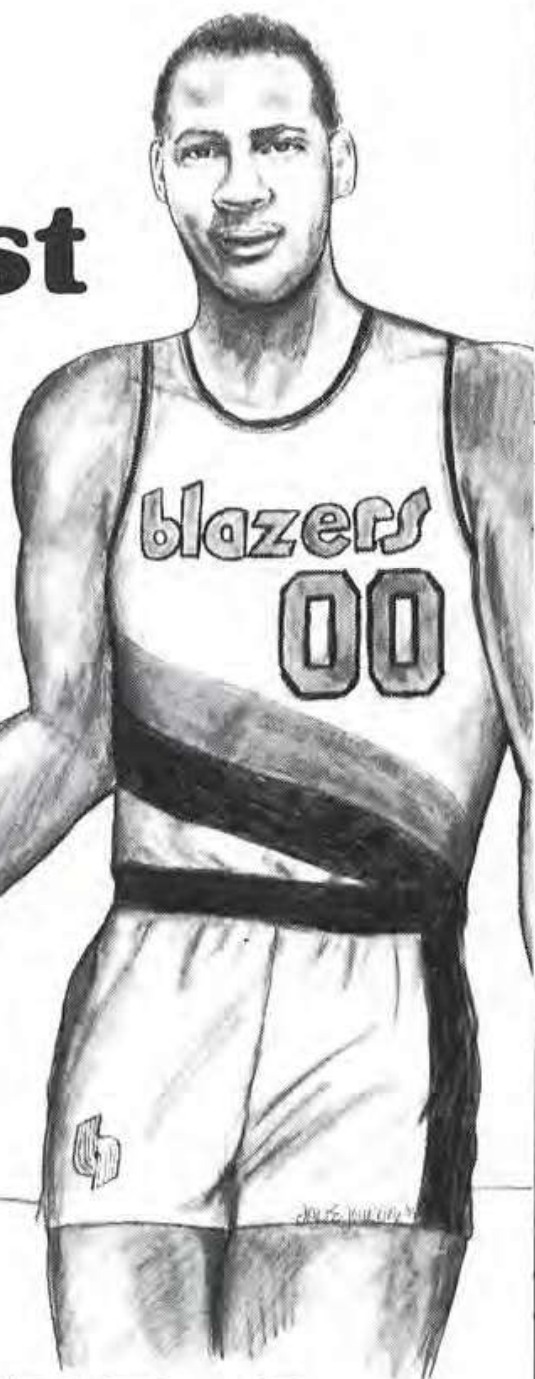

The entry of the Charlotte Hornets and Miami Heat to the league this season will be followed by the addition of the Minnesota Timberwolves and Orlando Magic in 1989-90. In order to balance the league-wide scheduling process, the NBA has devised a rotating divisional alignment schedule for the entry of the new clubs. Sacramento is now a permanent member of the Pacific Division. An expansion draft similar to the one held last June will be held at the conclusion of the season to stock the two incoming franchises with Charlotte and Miami exempt from losing any players. When Minnesota and Orlando participate in the 1989 College Draft, they will select 10th and 11th in both rounds of the draft. The accompanying chart outlines the formula for all the expansion teams.

	East	East	West
	Atlantic	Central	Midwest
1988-89	Charlotte		Miami
1989-90	Miami	Orlando	Charlotte
			Minnesota
1990-91	Miami	Charlotte	Minnesota
			Orlando
1991-92	Miami	Charlotte	Minnesota
	Orlando

BILL SCHONELY

"Good evening basketball fans, wherever you may be. . ." With that statement Bill Schonely is doing what he does best, and what few others do nearly as well. For 18 years and nearly 1,700 games, he's been bringing Trail Blazer basketball to radio listeners from California north to Alaska. With that experience has come a reputation as one of the best play-by-play men in the business.

Schonely's voice is perhaps the most recognizable in Oregon, as the Blazer radio network is the largest in the NBA serving 27 markets. He's also become a national commodity as narrator of the NBA promotional spots that cover the country's television markets.

A native of Norristown, Penn., Schonz, as he's known to many, served in the U.S. Marine Corps before settling in Seattle where he worked as sports director of KVI radio for seven years. He served as the voice of the Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League (and would later work for the NHL's Oakland Seals), University of Washington football, and Seattle Angels and Seattle Pilots baseball teams. The Pilots departed after just one season and the newly-created Portland Trail Blazers of the NBA came calling in search of their first announcer.

Schonely worked his 1,500th Blazer basketball game January 4, 1987. Friends and supporters from across the country paid tribute, and the date was proclaimed "Bill Schonely Day" by Portland Mayor Bud Clark. The second 1,500 is well underway.

GEOFF PETRIE

Geoff Petrie, the first-ever Portland Trail Blazer, enters his third season in the position of shooting instructor. He's in his fourth year as analyst on the team's radio broadcasts.

As shooting instructor, Petrie provides technical assistance to the Blazers on an individual basis. Being a member of Portland's broadcast crew, he observes the players every day, home and away, and has the opportunity to spot flaws and make adjustments with each player as needed on a daily basis.

Petrie doesn't just rely on standard video taping to get the job done, either. When it comes to shooting, he wrote the book, too. A graduate of Princeton, Petrie shared co-rookie-of-the-year honors with Dave Cowens of the Boston Celtics after being Portland's first draft selection prior to its inaugural season of 1970-71. The 6-5 guard set club records for assists and single-game scoring that remain the standards today.

Three years ago, in his first season behind the Blazer microphone, Petrie displayed a strong ability to provide insight into the action on the floor in a way that appealed to fans of all degree. He augmented the play-by-play of another Blazer original Bill Schonely. The two have grown up together in the Portland organization and possess a chemistry much sought but rarely obtained in the industry.

BLAZER TELEVISION NETWORK

Flagship station KOIN-TV, Channel 6, will again air 20 Blazer road games this season. The Blazer Television Network reaches nearly every television set in Oregon from KOIN in Portland to southern Oregon to Eugene.

STEVE JONES

A Portland native, Steve Jones comes from Franklin High School and the University of Oregon. He was an all-star guard in the now-defunct ABA, then played the 1975-76 season with the Trail Blazers before retiring.

Now, Jones has become a veteran of the broadcast business. He is entering his sixth year as the analyst for all Blazer telecasts and second season in the same capacity for WTBS national telecasts. But he didn't come without first earning an impressive resume.

In 1976 (the season after he retired), Jones became a color commentator for CBS. He was part of the CBS announce team that handled the Trail Blazers famed Championship game. Also that year, he was the color analyst for the Blazers. Steve continued for three seasons with CBS, and the Denver Nuggets.

Finally, in 1979, Jones came home to Portland to join Bill Schonely on the Blazer radio microphone. During his tenure with the Blazers, Steve has additionally been with the USA Cable Network as a commentator for NBA games.

He stepped aside in 1981 on broadcasts to devote a full-time effort to the club's radio talk show, Blazer Sports Talk. The show has become the most popular sports talk show in Oregon. It now is aired not only prior to every Blazer game, but also on Monday night television throughout the year.

Jones also has a syndicated column, Blazer Mailbag, which is syndicated throughout the state of Oregon.

PAT LAFFERTY

Pat Lafferty, a 17-year veteran television and radio sportscaster in the state of Oregon, is in his third year as the play-by-play announcer for the Trail Blazers, working alongside analyst Steve Jones.

A native of Portland and 1967 graduate of the University of Oregon, Lafferty has been the Blazers' public address announcer at Memorial Coliseum the past five seasons when he's not in front of the television camera. He also serves the Portland front office in the capacity of sales account executive and co-hosts Blazer Sports Talk Special Edition.

Lafferty served as assistant station manager and sports director at KLOO Radio in Corvallis, where he also was the station's top advertising account representative for 15 years. He worked four years as a member of the Oregon State basketball television announcing crew and hosted Beaver Coach Ralph Miller's weekly program for five seasons. He'd also been the voice of Oregon State baseball and Corvallis High School football and basketball for 15 years.

Prior to entering the broadcast field in Corvallis, the 41-year-old Lafferty spent three years in the army, serving in Vietnam in 1970. He and his wife, Isae, are the parents of 14-year-old twin sons, Dan and Sean.

BLAZER SPORTS TALK

Blazer Sports Talk, airs on KGW 90 minutes prior to every game. Blazer Sports Talk Special Edition will air 50 weeks a year on Monday nights, from 6-8 p.m., hosted by Steve Jones and Pat Lafferty.

BLAZER PAGE

BlazerPage is the popular feature in This Week magazine, delivered free each week to nearly 600,000 homes in the Portland metropolitan area. BlazerPage, found on page seven of each issue, contains timely news, features and notes about the Blazers, as well as columns written by front office personnel such as Harry Glickman, club president; Bucky Buckwalter, vice-president of basketball operations; and Jack Schalow, chief scout.

Steve Jones' weekly column, Blazer Mailbag, is a regular feature of BlazerPage. Mailbag is also featured in several publications throughout Oregon and southwest Washington, including the Vancouver Columbian, Ontario Argus-Observer, Medford Mail Tribune, Newport News and Albany Democrat-Herald. In the column, Jones addresses issues pertaining to the Trail Blazers, the entire NBA and the sport of basketball in general. Fans who submit questions and have them used in the column receive two free tickets to a future Blazer game. Questions should be sent to Blazer Mailbag care of the Trail Blazers.

MEET THE NEWEST TRAIL BLAZER.

Introducing the latest addition to the Toyota team. It's the new '89 4x4. And it's going to leave the competition in a trail of dust. Because we just pulled out all the stops in redesigning everything about it.

We started at the bottom with the option of wider, sportier tires and wheels. We added a new grill and improved the chassis for a smoother ride on and off the road.

We restyled the interior for more car-like comfort. We made switching to 4 wheel drive a breeze with our new 4WDemand option. And we even added more horsepower to our optional V-6 engine.

All of which sounds great and looks even better. So come see the new 4x4 yourself. Just blaze a trail to your nearest Toyota Dealer.
